CIRCUS AT THE FAIR GROUNDS

Doctor Rowe Signs Contract for Trapeze, Acrobatic and Comedy Horizontal Bar Wonders-Even an Air Ship Is to Sail at the Fair Grounds-If the Fair Manager Has His Way, the Great Steiner Troupe Will Be at the Fair to Play to the Public Free.

Doctor H. M. Rowe has just signed , up a contract with the famous Steiner troupe, said to be the greatest trapeze, comedy bar and acrobatic performers in the United States. The Steiner troupe will give four free acts every afternoon and evening in front of the grandstand. One of the women performs hairbreadth acts, hanging by her teeth high up in the air. She duplicates the great acts of the Curzon Sisters, now playing at the great Hippodrome in New York city. The Steiner troupe comes direct from the Minnesota State fair to the Ogden Four-State fair. This alone is a guarantee of the ability of the entire troupe. The price at the Fair Grounds will be only 50 cents for the entire fair, including free seat in the grandstand for the races, the sheep show and all combined. The Steiner troupe in itself is worth the price, as the troupe has played to audiences all state of Utah.

over the east at $1 admission price Doctor Rowe says he has other at-tractions he is figuring on, and that he expects the contracts for the same in two or three days. In order to se-cure these large attractions, Doctor Rowe had to join hands with the In-ter-State Fair at Spokane, Wash., which holds a fair one week follow-ing the Four-State Fair at Ogden. This is made necessary as the Steiner troupe, as well as the other first class shows cannot come to Ogden for just one week.

As soon as the other attractions are signed up, Doctor Rowe, the manager of the fair, promises to give the information to the public. He says is figuring on an airship and that he expects to sign a contract for an air-ship which will probably cost him $1,- 000 per day. From the foregoing it will be seen that Dr. Rowe purposes to make his fair excel anything ever seen in the

TRICK ELEPHANT ENJOYS A BATH

A large crowd of little children gathered in front of the Orpheum the-ater just before the matinee yesterday afternoon and stood gazing with open-mouthed astonishment at the huge elephant, "Minnie," which be-longs to Captain Maximilion Gruber. "Minnie" was having one of her daily baths, and the way she acted while a large stream of water was played upon her was a whole show in itself. The new fire hose installed in the front part of the theater was used to convey the water to the street, and the force of the water was almost enough to knock a person over, but "Minnie" didn't mind that in the least; she enjoyed it. The nozzle of the hose was placed in her mouth, and she swallowed the water as fast as it came out. Then she was taken to the rear of the theater, and the next time the children saw her was in the performance, after which they all went up on the stage and fed her peanuts and candy. The day proved a very good one for "Minnie," and no doubt she is looking forward to the Saturday matinee, when she will again meet her little friends.

One box of peaches was weighed and every one of them weighed over three-quarters of pound and the largest weighed one pound and an ounce. Everything was free in the fruit line. Watermelons and nutmegs by the load were brought in by the farmers and were sliced and given away to anyone who cared to eat. A big Indian war dance was in progress. The Washakee Tribe of Indians from Idaho was there in full regalia. The Indians even had a quartette of songsters and were singing Mormon hymns from the large platform. A merry-go-round was in motion and several side shows. Candy stands and ice cream stands were in evidence and it was interesting to note the competition between two ice cream dealers. One of the ice cream venders had a little smaller cone than the other fellow and naturally had no trade. He then announced that he would give a glass of lemonade with every ice cream cone and the result was that the other fellow

BODY OF FIRE FIGHTER FOUND

MISSOULA Mont., Aug. 31.—One more body was found in the burned timber near Avery, Idaho, this morning according to a telegram from Ranger Debitt, received here by Forester Greeley at noon. From papers, the man was identified as Larry Lavar of the Setzer creek fire fighting crew. His address is unknown Forester Greeley received reports direct from both the Kootenal and Nez Perce forests today. Supervisor Skeels of the Kootenai at Libby states that while they have had no rain the fires are all under control and are entirely confined to the dis-tricts which were swept over during the high winds, the timbers which then caught on fire still burning. The rain in the Nez Perce forest practically extinguished the fires. A small crew of men equipped for light and fast traveling was sent out from the Bitter Root valley this more ing to go to the head of Skalkaho creek and investigate the extent of a new fire reported last night as hav-ing come over the divide from Rock creek in Granite country. This fire was reported by sheep men to be 20 miles long but this is doubted here as last night was the first time notice had been given of a fire burning in that section of the country.

Didn't I Tell You?

I have told you in my ads that an electric meter is as correct a measuring instrument as a quart measure, and that a gas meter measures as accurately as the weight on a scale beam.

In summer people find no fault with them, but in winter they tell us "There must be something wrong with the meter," This is because one can not realize how much they have used during the long winter nights. If at any time you feel that your meter has not registered correctly, you can call and request that it be tested, and we will send for it while you wait and you can see it tested for yourself.

Are you going to try the Tungsten this winter and reduce your lighting bills, or are you going to keep right on using the old lamp and not try to reduce your bills? We sell them at reduced prices. It will make a surprising difference in the illumination when you replace blackened and burned out lamps. A bright, cheerful house keeps the boys and girls at home. Try it.
